

Author's Point of View in Nonfiction

Name: _____

Date: _____

Score: ____ / 10

Quick Review

An author has their OWN point of view about a topic — what they think or feel about it. Your point of view may be the same or different. Look for opinion words (best, should, must, important) to spot the author's view.

PART 1 — READ

Read the passage. Then answer the questions.

Should Kids Have Recess?

Every child needs time to run, play, and rest. That is why I believe schools should keep recess every day. During recess, kids get fresh air, exercise, and a chance to make friends. These things are just as important as math and reading.

Some grown-ups say recess takes time away from learning. I do not agree. Studies show that kids pay better attention in class after they have moved around. A short break is not lost learning time — it actually helps the brain. Without recess, kids feel tired and bored before the day is over.

I know that bad weather and busy schedules can sometimes make recess hard to fit in. Still, schools should try every day. Kids deserve a part of the day to be themselves, laugh with friends, and stretch their legs. Recess is more than a break. It is one of the best parts of school.

Explanations
1. B	The author says directly that schools should keep recess every day. The other choices say the opposite of what the author believes.
2. B	Calling recess “more than a break” is the author’s opinion. A reports research, C reports what others say, D is a fact about schools.
3. B	Paragraph 2 says “I do not agree” and gives reasons. The others contradict that.
4. B	Phrases like “I believe” signal opinions. A names facts and nouns; C and D are topic words, not opinion clues.
5. B	A different point of view often agrees with some details but argues with others. A means they agree fully (not what disagree means); C is extreme; D contradicts the idea of having a view.
6.	Answer: Example: I agree because I focus better after running outside. OR I disagree because I would rather have art class instead. Any reasoned personal view that compares to the author’s view.
7. B	Mentioning research is a way to back up an opinion. A is wrong type of source; C and D are not why the author uses studies.
8. B	An opposite point of view would argue against recess. A keeps the same view; C ignores that opinions still appear; D changes the topic.
9. D	Calling recess “one of the best parts of school” is the most opinion-loaded line. B and C are facts; A is general truth.
10. C	Persuasive writing uses opinion words and tries to convince. A is wrong type; B is not the genre; D is not the topic.
