

Pronoun Case: Subjective, Objective, and Possessive

Name: _____

Date: _____

Score: _____ / 10

Quick Review

Use SUBJECTIVE pronouns (I, he, she, we, they, who) when the pronoun is the doer of the verb. Use OBJECTIVE pronouns (me, him, her, us, them, whom) after a verb or preposition. Use POSSESSIVE pronouns (my, his, her, our, their / mine, hers, ours, theirs) to show ownership. Quick trick: cover the other name in 'Sarah and ___' and re-read; if 'I went' sounds right, use I; if 'me went' sounds wrong, you need 'I'.

Explanations

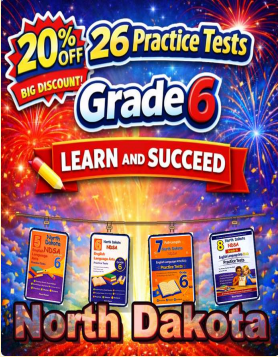

1. C	Both pronouns are SUBJECTS of the verb 'walked', so use the subjective case: 'Devon and I'. A and B use the objective 'me' as a subject (cover 'Devon and' — 'Me walked' sounds wrong). D uses the reflexive 'myself' as a subject, but reflexives never start a sentence as the doer.
2. B	After the preposition 'between', use the OBJECTIVE case: 'you and me'. A uses subjective 'I' after a preposition — a hyper-correction many students make. C swaps in the reflexive 'myself'. D drops a name and uses subjective 'we' as the object of 'between'.
3. D	After 'to' (a preposition), use OBJECTIVE pronouns: 'Mia and me'. A and B use subjective 'I' as the object of 'to' (drop Mia — 'handed to I' sounds wrong). C uses two subjective pronouns where objectives are needed.
4. A	'Whom' is the OBJECT of 'call' (the principal called him → him = whom). A is correct. B uses subjective 'who' as the object of 'call'. C uses objective 'whom' as the subject of 'called' (try he/him: 'he called' → who). D puts subjective 'who' after the preposition 'to' (must be 'whom').
5. C	Possessive 'its' has NO apostrophe — that form belongs only to the contraction 'it's' (= it is). A uses the contraction where a possessive is needed. B invents a non-existent form 'its'. D uses plural 'their' for one robin (number mismatch).
6. B	A gerund ('singing') is a noun, so the pronoun before it takes the POSSESSIVE case: 'his singing'. A uses the objective 'him' (common error). C uses subjective 'he' after a preposition. D uses the reflexive 'himself' for no reason — the subject is 'neighbors', not the singer.
7. D	After 'than' in a comparison, finish the implied verb to test case: 'than she (is)'. The subjective 'she' is correct. A and C use objective forms ('me is'? 'him is'? — wrong). B uses the reflexive, which never appears in a comparison clause.
8. B	'We seventh graders' is the SUBJECT of 'organized', so use subjective 'we'. Cover the noun: 'We organized' is right; 'Us organized' is wrong. A uses objective 'us' as a subject. C uses the reflexive 'ourselves' as a subject. D uses the possessive 'our', which would mean the graders belong to someone.
9. C	'Theo and ___' are OBJECTS of 'gave' → objective 'me'. C is correct. A uses subjective 'I' as an object (drop Theo: 'gave I' — no). B misuses the reflexive 'myself'. D pairs subjective 'he' with subjective 'I' where two objectives are required.

10.	Answer: He and I were arguing about who should call the coach, but she gave the phone to Jada and me anyway. Two fixes needed: (1) 'Him and me' are the SUBJECTS of 'were arguing' → subjective 'He and I'. (2) 'Jada and I' are the OBJECTS of the preposition 'to' → objective 'Jada and me'. The pronoun 'who' is already correct (subject of 'should call'). Mark wrong if either fix is missed, if the student writes 'myself' anywhere (no reflexive belongs here), or if 'who' is changed to 'whom'.
