Quick Review

Word choice creates tone. Look beyond the dictionary meaning and ask what feeling, image, or comparison the author is building.

PART 1 — READ

Read the passage. Then answer the questions.

Rain at the Theater Door

The rain did not fall; it auditioned. It tapped the theater awning, whispered along the ticket window, and then burst into applause against the alley cans. Theo stood under the lights with his trumpet case, pretending not to read the cast list taped inside the glass.

His name was not there. The empty space where he had expected it seemed to glow. Around him, students shrieked and hugged, their happiness bright enough to make him feel ungrateful for needing to look away.

Then Mara, who had earned the lead, stepped outside. She did not offer the easy comfort of saying the judges were wrong. Instead she said, I heard you practicing the bridge after everyone left. No one works like that by accident.

Theo listened to the rain soften from applause to a steady hush. He picked up the trumpet case and followed Mara back inside for rehearsal, where the understudy list waited beneath the first page.
